

Province dodges referendum to raise sales tax

8 per cent. Consumers asked to pay more for flood, déficit

Manitoba's NDP government will raise the provincial sales tax to pay for flood-fighting and will scrap a law requiring that the matter first be put to a referendum.

Tuesday's provincial budget increases the sales tax to eight per cent from seven per cent effective July 1. The move would normally require a public vote under the province's balanced budget law, but the government said there's no time for that.

"We'll waive the requirement ... for a referendum," Finance Minister Stan Struthers said. "We think we need to move very quickly. We can't afford to lose a construction season."

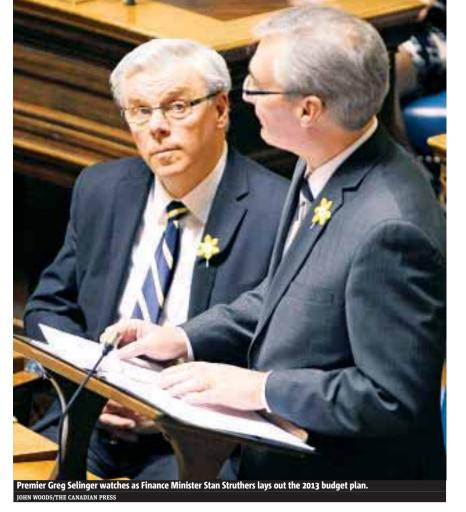

The budget is bound to provide fodder for the Opposition Progressive Conserva-

- Provincial sales tax to increase to eight per cent from seven per cent as of
- Child car seats, bicycle helmets and baby supplies such as diapers and strollers to be exempt from the sales
- Tobacco taxes go up by $1 per package of 25, making Manitoba tobacco taxes the highest in the country.
- An extra $2.8 million in user fees to be collected by charging more for fishing licences, business registrations, veterinary diagnostic tests and more.

- A 2011 election promise to eliminate the school property tax for senior homeowners will begin to be phased in next year.
- Government to proceed with new flood-proofing projects identified in two recent independent reviews. Could cost $1 billion.
- A deficit this year of $518 million; return to balanced budgets by 2017.

tives, who have long accused ing taxes, then raised a numthe government of failing to ber of taxes and fees in the keep spending in check. The 2012 budget months later. said during the 2011 Later, the New Democrats election campaign that it pushed back their balancedbudget plan by two years. was on track to balance the budget by 2015 without rais-THE CANADIAN PRESS

DON'T WAIT O SEE

Get LASIK today, take 5 years to pay.

Book a free consultation at 1-855-894-2020 or lasikmd.com

○ ROGERS™

WINNIPEG

212 Henderson Hwy (204) 989-2954

AirSource 1200 McPhillips St (204) 989-2927

AirSource 3480-1120 Grant Ave (204) 475-0483

AirSource Unit 20-2583 Pembina Hwy (204) 261-1234

> 2599 Pembina Hwy at Bison Dr (204) 261-1234

University Centre University of Manitoba (204) 987-3444

AirSource Portage Place (204) 946-0721

AirSource ortage Ave. at (204) 954-2939

AirSource 1500 Regent Ave. W (204) 988-3080

AirSource St. Vital Centre Kiosk (204) 989-2939

AirSource St. Vital Centre (204) 989-2940

SI Wireless Commi (204) 231-1600

SI Wireless Communica 661 Corydon Ave (204) 231-1650 SI Wireless Communica

Winnipeg Square (204) 944-8070 Teleco

Kenaston Common (Kenaston at McGillivray) (204) 947-9570 Teleco

948 St. James St. (204) 831-1234

(204) 667-8248 Garden City

Shopping Centre (204) 339-8895 Polo Park

(204) 774-2412

SELKIRK

Nickel Communicat 3-344 Main St. (204) 482-9667

STEINBACH

Nickel Communication Unit H – 197 Main St. (204) 326-4988

WINKLER

Nickel Communications 9 - 820 Triple E Blvd. (204) 325-4121

BRANDON Teleco

Unit B3 - 1128B 18th St (204) 727-0100

ndon Shoppers Mall (204) 571-6976

NEEPAWA

Neepawa True Value 268 Hamilton St. (204) 476-2333

STONEWALL TMC Distribution 325 Main St.

(204) 467-2014 PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE Reimer Antenna Service 1000 Saskatchewan Ave. W

SWAN RIVER

Sears Swan River 619 Main St. (204) 734-4541

DAUPHIN North of 51 Designs &

Computers 12 2nd Ave. NW (204) 638-7148

THOMPSON City Centre Mall

(204) 677-3212

THE PAS

Sound Innovations 317 Fischer Ave (204) 623-7171

nce upon a time (a very limited time), people discovered they'd get a

Free Kindle e-Reader

just for getting a new phone. Everyone read happily ever after. The end.

FOR A LIMITED TIME ACTIVATE A NEW SMARTPHONE ON SELECT 3-YR. PLANS AND GET A FREE KINDLE PAPERWHITE E-READER

ALREADY A ROGERS CUSTOMER? FIND OUT HOW THIS OFFER WORKS FOR YOU.

CALL 1 866 801-3520 CLICK ROGERS.COM/KINDLEOFFER VISIT YOUR LOCAL ROGERS RETAIL STORE

PLAN FLEXIBILITY | UPGRADE ANYTIME ROGERS TECHXPERT™ | DEVICE PROTECTION

*Offer only available from participating Rogers locations until the end of April 30, 2013 or while quantities last to new and existing customers who purchase a new smartphone and activate a new line on an eligible 3-yr, talk, text and internet plan (single line with min. $55 monthly service fee or add a line to any family plan with min. $110 monthly service fee for first two lines). Customers must also complete online submission form at roger spromotions.com/kindle by May 30, 2013. Allow 4-6 weeks from online submission for delivery. Device Savings Recovery Fee, Service Deactivation Fee and/or Early Cancellation Fees (as applicable) will apply. Customers who cancel eligible line(s) within 15 days of activation in accordance with terms of Rogers Wireless Service Agreement rendering such customer no longer eligible will not be shipped the Kindle. Offer subject to change without notice, not redeemable for cash and may not be combined with any other offer or discount. Limit one Kindle per new line. See rogerspromotions.com/kindle for full terms and conditions. Visit rogers.com/freedomadvantage for full terms and conditions on Rogers Smartphone Freedom Advantage program. Kindle is a trademark of Amazon.com, Inc. or its affiliates. Kindle devices are given away on behalf of Rogers Communications. Amazon is not a sponsor of this promotion. ©2013 Rogers Communications.

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

Weather watch

Heavy U.S. snow a 'step in the wrong direction' for Manitoba, says ex-flood forecaster

The dump of snow that fell across the border in North Dakota and parts of Minnesota over the weekend and into Monday is not great news for Manitoba's flood watch, according to the province's former chief flood forecaster.

"Certainly it's a significant step in the wrong direction," Alf Warkentin told Metro, Monday, regarding the storm that had brought 20 to 25 cm of snow to the Minot and Fargo area by Monday morning. "It's very substantial, and this is wet snow — it's more dense than the normal winter snow because the temperature (is) near freezing, so there's a high water content in it."

The U.S. National Weather Service told Metro
the weekend's snow in North Dakota could add up to as much as nearly 3.8 cm of water to the Souris and Red River basins. To make matters worse, Warkentin said the new white snow — including the five to 10 cm that fell in Manitoba Monday — actually causes the sun's rays to reflect away from the snow pack.

"It prevents energy from being absorbed by the snow and to melt the snow," he said.

The late snowfall amounts and below-normal temperatures this late in the season have Warkentin expecting that Manitoba may see one of the latest starts to the spring run-off since 1826, when the thaw didn't come until early May.

"It's not good because that does increase the chance that it's a fairly fast melt," he said. "And also, when you get the melt in late April, then the run-off period extends into May, and then you start getting into the time of the year when rainfall becomes more of significant factor.

"That, of course, is very bad."

The province told Metro the precipitation forecast for the Manitoba portion of the Red River Valley is within the predictions for a normal weather scenario in the provincial flood outlook, and impacts from the snowfall south of the border are being calculated with officials from North Dakota. SHAME GIBSON/METRO

Confusion Corner. Demo kicking off development

A demolition at Confusion Corner starting Wednesday will pave the way for a change of scenery for the thousands of drivers who navigate the notorious Winnipeg intersection every day.

The demolition of the former home of Bruni Auto at 257 Osborne St. will get underway at 10 a.m. to make room for the Landmark Office Tower — a five-storey office building managed and leased by Imperial Properties set to open in 2014.

"This is a great opportunity for the local community and members of the news media to attend and watch this major project commence," said Adrian Schulz, spokesperson for Imperial Properties in a release.

Demolition is expected to take four to six weeks. METRO

Pembina Highway. Police make quick arrest after theft at convenience store

Police didn't have to look far to catch up with a man who allegedly robbed a Pembina Highway convenience store early Monday.

Officers were called to the store in the 2000 block of Pembina Highway around 3:30 a.m. after a man in a disguise demanded and received an undisclosed number of cigarettes, police said, adding that he claimed to be armed but no weapon was seen, and the 37-year-old male clerk was not injured.

Police arrested the suspect in the 1800 block of Pembina Highway shortly after 10 a.m. Monday, and further investigation showed the same suspect had allegedly smashed a business window in the 2500 block of Pembina Highway shortly before the robbery.

Chase Brian William Campbell, 18, of Winnipeg is charged with robbery, disguise with intent, mischief under $5,000 and various breach charges. METRO

Speed humps nixed for Charleswood street

Laxdal Road.

Man's motion for pilot project fails after city committee splits vote

BERNICE PONTANILLA bernice.pontanilla@metronews

Despite an impassioned plea from a resident, speed humps aren't coming to Charleswood's Laxdal Road.

Richard Weind told members of the infrastructure renewal and public works committee on Tuesday that new commercial development in his community has not only increased traffic on his street, but also vehicle speeds.

"I've been somewhat relentless and that's because the support on the street is pretty much unequivocal," he said.

"Nobody really wants speed humps, but the traffic is becoming worse and worse, especially the speed." One side of the road has no sidewalks, added Weind, while the other has a short stretch of pavement, then gravel, and then nothing at all.

Armed with letters from other residents and supported by Coun. Paula Havixbeck, Weind argued in favour of a one-year pilot project for the speed humps.

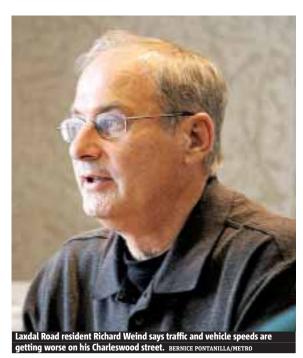

But the committee was split 2-2 during the vote, so the motion for the one-year pilot proiect failed

"It's a sad day at city hall when people come here for two-and-a-half years and can't leave with some kind of a solution," said Havixbeck after the meeting.

"I don't believe they (councillors on the committee) have even been on that street."

Weind said while he's disappointed in the decision, "we got our day in court."

Follow Bernice Pontanilla on Twitter @MetroBee

Infrastructure

One-way stretch of William Avenue gets green light

A city committee has approved turning a short block of William Avenue into a one-way westbound street.

The request for the change to the block, between Main and King streets, came from Red River College, which would like more loading space for its Paterson GlobalFoods Institute.

In a report to the infrastructure renewal and public works committee, Luis Escobar, the city's manager of transportation, says the "proposed change in operation to one-way westbound is not anticipated to have a negative effect based on consultation with Winnipeg Transit and other stakeholders."

Once the change goes into effect, the two eastbound lanes on William will be forced to turn north onto King. Bernice Pontanila/Metro

Pedestrian crossing

City using wrong funds for Corydon corridor: Gerbasi

City Coun. Jenny Gerbasi has voiced criticism over a new signalized pedestrian corridor on Corydon Avenue — not about the corridor itself, but how it's being paid for.

Gerbasi (Fort Rouge-East Fort Garry) said the installation of the $34,900 corridor on Corydon between Oak and Elm streets should not be paid with funds in the land-dedication reserve.

"I don't think we should be doing this at all this way, it's absolutely absurd," Gerbasi said

"We're using land-dedication money to pay for street improvements, which is totally inappropriate."

Gerbasi said this shows the capital budget needs more funds in order to make these types of improvements.

BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013 metr⊕ NEWS

Open-sourcing space.Winnipeg included in NASA-led international collaboration project

This weekend Winnipeg will be one of at least 83 sites around the world taking part in an international think tank led by NASA to find new ideas to improve both space exploration and life on Earth — and you don't have to be a rocket scientist to take part.

The second annual International Space Apps Challenge is being hosted in Winnipeg for the first time at the University of Manitoba April 20 and 21.

"It's to do collaborations, to figure out new solutions and at the same time promote the industry and try to remove that perception that space is solely for just a few individuals worldwide," explained Dario Schor, the U of M computer-engineering graduate student who is heading up the local event.

"We're trying to get people

Described on their website as a "two-day hackathon," Schor said the local event will include high school and university students, developers, engineers and scientists, all working on solutions to 50 NASA-suggested topics.

At the end of the challenge each site around the world will pick their top two solutions and send them to NASA, who will then pick the top five worldwide.

Not all of the ideas discussed will be just for astronauts, said Schor, who is excited about challenges looking at how to best make the data brought back from space more accessible to us Earth dwellers.

"We can learn from our technology from space," he said. shane gibson/metro

Pickwick throws out old set of music, brings in the new

In town. Seattle band playing Winnipeg Folk Festival trades in its alt-country sound for soul-infused rock

JARED STORY

Pickwick pours out its soul on Can't Talk Medicine.

Formed in 2008, the Seattle sextet started as an altcountry band, but the sound found on its debut full-length album is a mix of indie-pop,

'60s garage rock and straight-up soul.

"Originally, I would write all the songs on acoustic guitar. It was OK but it was pretty derivative of Jeff Tweedy and Ryan Adams," vocalist Galen Disston said. "We were getting bored and could play the set in our sleep, so we threw out all the old material and started writing songs collaboratively, which gave us the shot in the arm we needed.

'Now we write from really simple elements like a bass line or a keyboard riff as opposed to me coming to the band with an entire song structure. It's very liberating.

Show details

Pickwick plays the Park Theatre Wednesday as part of the Winnipeg Folk Festival's concert series. Vancouverbased musician Jordan Klassen opens. Tickets are $15.75 at Ticketmaster. Showtime is 8 p.m.

It's also successful. Since switching to a soul-infused sound, Pickwick has thrived.

Its Myths 7-inch series held the No. 1 sales spot at Seattle's Sonic Boom Records for weeks in 2011.

band's upcoming shows in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago are sold out — amazing, because Pickwick has never played east of Austin, Texas. And on April 8, Pickwick performed at the Seattle Mariners home opener.

"Pretty surreal," Disston says of their Safeco Field debut. "Seattle's been good to us and we were so thankful to have that opportunity. We did Windowsill (from Can't Talk Medicine) and two covers — Elvis Costello's Pump It Up and our screaming garage version of John Fogerty's

Pop sensation

Selena Gomez world tour includes stop in Winnipeg

The last time Selena Gomez came to Winnipeg she was on the arm of her thenboyfriend Justin Bieber. Now that she's on her own she's coming back for a solo performance.

The 20-year-old multiplatinum singer and actress will play the MTS Centre Aug. 19 as part of her 56-city world which kicks off in Vancouver just five days before tour,

her stop in Winnipeg. Tickets for the Canadian leg of her tour will go on sale May 3 at ticketmaster.ca.

JEWISH FOUNDATION OF MANITOBA Today. Tomorrow. Forever.

Supporting Women's Causes in Manitoba

Women's Endowment Fund Luncheon

The Women's Endowment Fund at the Jewish Foundation of Manitoba supports innovative programs designed to improve the lives of Manitoba women of all backgrounds. Since 1994, the Fund has distributed almost $400,000 in grants to 71 organizations.

Join us May 10 for the Women's Endowment Fund Annual Luncheon, featuring guest speaker Margaret Redmond of the Assiniboine Park Conservancy. Call 204.477.7520 for details

Thank you to all organizations that submitted grant applications by our March 1 deadline. Our next deadline is October 15.

To see if your organization or project qualifies for a grant,

Serving up sweet treats and smiles

Five-year-old Deana Chatkana offers to share a chocolate-chip cookie at Siloam Mission over the lunch hour, Tuesday. Deana joined her mom, Lisa, and her sister, Dasia, for the launch of a new partnership between Subway Restaurants and the non-profit that will see Winnipeg Subway locations providing 500 subs and 1,000 cookies to Siloam Mission's clients every Tuesday. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013 NEWS

Identifying the victims

An eight-year-old boy and a 29-year-old woman have been identified as two of the three casualties of the bombing.

Martin Richard, a Grade 3 student from the Boston suburb of Dorchester, was with his parents Bill and Denise, his younger sister Jane, a Grade 1 student, and older brother Henry. Jane lost a leg to the attack, Congressman Stephen Lynch told Torstar News Service. Denise suffered severe head injuries, he said.

Police have closed off several city blocks around the Richard family home.

Also identified on Tuesday was Krystle Campbell, of Medford, Mass.,

who worked at a restaurant in nearby Arlington. She was at the marathon with her father and her best friend.

William Campbell said his daughter was a "very caring, very loving person and was daddy's little girl." He said her friend was seriously injured.

Boston University said in a statement that a graduate student was the third victim, but held the name pending permission from the family.

The Chinese Consulate in New York said a Chinese national was the third person killed and that another was injured. Official news agency Xinhua reported that relatives have requested that the deceased not be identified.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE/WITH FILES FROM THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bombs likely made of pressure cookers: FBI

Boston Marathon.

Such devices are often used abroad, and guides are available online

The bombs that ripped through the Boston Marathon crowd appear to have been fashioned out of ordinary pressure cookers, packed with shrapnel and then hidden in duffel bags, investigators said Tuesday.

Scores of victims remained in Boston hospitals, many with grievous injuries, a day the twin explosions killed three people, wounded more than 170 and reawakened fears of terrorism in the nine-year-old girl and 10-year-old boy were among 17 victims listed in critical condition.

At a news conference, FBI agent Richard DesLauriers confirmed that investigators found pieces of black nylon from a bag or backpack and fragments of ball bearings and

He said the range of suspects and motives was "wide open."

FBI agents searched an apartment in the Boston suburb of Revere. According to one law enforcement official, the tenant had been tackled as he ran from the scene of the explosions. But the man may simply have been fleeing from danger, said the official, who spoke on condition of ano-

Pressure-cooker explosives have been used in Afghanistan, India, Nepal and Pakistan, according to a 2010 report by the FBI and Homeland Security. One of the devices used in the May 2010 Times

"It wasn't a hard decision to (amputate). ... We just completed the ugly job that the bomb did."

Dr. George Velmahos, chief of trauma surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, where four leg amputations were performed

Square attempted bombing was a pressure cooker, the report said.

Such devices have been recommended for lone-wolf operatives by al-Qaida. But guides on the bombs are readily found online, and officials said Americans should not rush to link the attack to overseas terrorists.

Investigators said they have not yet determined what was used to set off the explosives.

Securing the London run

Security will be increased Sunday for the London Marathon, with police confirming that plans are "under review."

Senior government officials met with police and intelligence chiefs Tuesday to develop a strategy, working closely with the FBI and U.S. police.

It will be the latest in a string of major operations, including Margaret Thatcher's funeral on Wednesday, the Olympics, the Royal Wedding and the Jubilee. KIERON MONKS/METRO WORLD NEWS

'Massive'.

Quake in Pakistan and Iran kills dozens

An earthquake toppled homes on both sides of the Iran-Pakistan border Tuesday, killing dozens of people and causing skyscrapers to sway in Dubai.

It also forced Iranian officials - for the second time in less than a week to assure the world that its main nuclear reactor wasn't damaged.

At least 34 people were killed in a single village in Pakistan, a military official said. Iran issued conflicting reports; its state-run Press TV called the quake 'massive' and cited 40 deaths before retracting that number. Other outlets mentioned no deaths.

The apparent backtracking in the Iranian reports could not be immediately explained, but authorities could be seeking to downplay casualties. The Tehran Geophysics Center said the quake measured at least magnitude 7.7, the strongest in more than 50 years.

Iran's nuclear chief Fereidoun Abbasi said there was no damage to the Bushehr reactor and invited UN inspectors to visit, the semiofficial ISNA news agency reported. Abbasi repeated the statement issued after last week's quake: The Bushehr reactor was built to withstand quakes up to magnitude 8.

On the Pakistani side, a military official said another 80 people were injured. Up to 1,000 mud homes were damaged, Pakistan Television

A Pakistani police officer, Azmatullah Regi, said nearly three dozen homes and shops collapsed in one village in the Mashkel area, which was the hardest hit by the quake. Rescue workers pulled the bodies of a couple and their three children, ages five to 15, from the rubble of one house, he said.

Alleged G20 hooligan surrenders to Toronto police

Toronto police have charged a 27-year-old New York City man with 26 offences arising from the G20 Summit in Toronto in June 2010.

Investigators say Joel Saleem Bitar returned to Canada from the United States voluntarily and surrendered to police on Tuesday.

Bitar — who was wanted on a Canada-wide warrant for G20-related offences - is being held in custody pending a court appearance on Wed-

Police allege Bitar used a hammer to smash the windows of a police car while an officer was inside the vehicle and vandalized windows of numerous downtown banks and shops.

He's also alleged to have thrown a rock at a line of police officers and smashed the window of a police minivan, causing property damage totalling more than $400,000.

Bitar faces charges including 13 counts of mischief over $5,000, two counts of intimidation of a justice system participant by violence and five counts of mischief endangering life. THE CANADIAN PRESS

G20 calamity

Dozens of protesters - many wearing disguises - went on a rampage through downtown Toronto during the international summit.

• Hauled in. More than 1.100 people were taken into custody that weekend in one of the largest mass arrests in Canadian history.

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013 metr⊕ 06 BUSINESS

97.99 (+ 0.47¢)

12,119.92 (+115.04)

$88.72 US (+1¢)

GOLD $1,387.40 (+$26.30)

Natural gas: $4.16 US (+2¢) Dow Jones: 14,756.78 (+157.58) Available on Google Play

Facebook Home comes to Canada

Facebook users in Canada and around the world were able to download the new Facebook Home app via the Google Play store as of Tuesday, the company said.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bunnies denied

India says no to Playboy club

India's going to have to wait for its first Playboy bunnies.

After a month of heated debate, the government in the tourist hotspot of Goa refused permission to open the country's first Playboy club. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

StatsCan numbers

Job vacancies fall to record low

Statistics Canada said the total job vacancies for January, down by 22,000 from a year earlier, is the lowest since the agency began collecting data in March 2011.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Addis Ababa. Hit hard by climate change, Ethiopia fights back by going green

"Climate change is not a secondary issue for us, it's the primary one!" exclaims Haileselassie Sebehatu Hailu, manager of Addis Ababa's Environmental Protection Agency, as we meet in one of the municipal

Even though Addis is located at a high altitude, temperatures are rising. Indeed, Ethiopia, a desperately poor nation, is one of the countries worst affected by climate

"(Farmers) used to predict the weather by watching birds migrate and leaves change. Now people don't know when to plant, and they don't have other assets, so they can't buy food if their crops fail," reports Cathy Riley, Ethiopia Country Manager for Christian Aid.

"Climate change is also expected to result in more mosquitoes and therefore more malaria and more crop pests, and the unpredictable rainfalls will lead to water-based conflicts."

To fight climate-change doom the government has focused on getting Ethiopians to go green.

Collecting and reducing waste is seen as key, says Haileselassie (Ethiopians go by their first names).

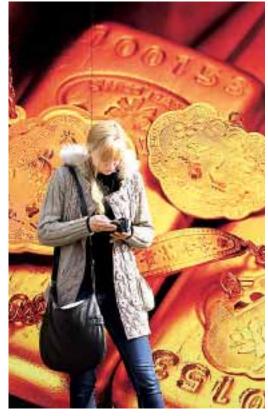

According to a new study by scientists at Britain's Royal Botanic Gardens, climate change means that by 2080 Ethiopian farmers may not be able to grow the country's famous Arabica bean. Coffee-growing countries in Central America stand to lose their

The government is teaching farmers irrigation horticulture, which makes them less dependent on rain.

"Despite our small road coverage, we have a huge number of cars and buses, and they pollute", says Haileselas-"Ŝo we're building a rapid bus and light rail system, which will be finished in five

The government has tried to change Ethiopians' attitude towards climate change by having schoolchildren plant trees. Haileselassie invites me to plant my very own apple tree seedling, and we head out into Addis Ababa's maddening traffic. For the sake of the planet, one can only hope that his green plan succeeds

ELISABETH BRAW/METRO WORLD NEWS

Money for your gold?

A woman stands in front of a shop that buys and sells gold Tuesday in Berlin. Gold prices reached a two-year low this week and many gold mining companies are feeling a severe squeeze on profits. Gold stocks were still top of mind Tuesday among traders on the Toronto Stock Exchange, although mercifully most were in positive territory after severe losses the previous session. SEAN GALLUP/GETTY IMAGES

Up in smoke. Smoking in the home sharply reduces real estate value: Survey

Homeowners risk coughing up big bucks if they're also smokers, according to a survey of Ontario real estate agents and

The survey found that smoking in the home can reduce the value of the property on resale by up to 29 per cent.

The study was sponsored by Pfizer Canada, a pharmaceutical company whose products include a smoking cessation medication. It estimates a potential loss of up to $107,000 on a home in Ontario, where the average price is currently around $369,000.

The study found that an overwhelming majority of 401 real estate agents and brokers in the survey agreed that it is more difficult to sell a home where owners have smoked.

More than half of respondents — 56 per cent — said most buyers are less likely to purchase a home where people have smoked, and 27 per cent said most are unwilling to buy a home where people have smoked.

In Canada, an estimated 15 per cent of homes have at least one regular smoker.

The study found that almost half, or 44 per cent of respondents said smoking in the home affects resale value.

Of these, one-in-three said smoking in the home may lower the value by 10 to 19 per cent and a further one-in-three said it may lower the value by 20-29 per cent.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

2013 INTERNATIONAL MODEL & TALENT SEARCH

PRESENTED BY PANACHE MODEL & TALENT MANAGEMENT AT PORTAGE PLACE

AT 7PM

FRIDAY, APRIL 19 | SATURDAY, APRIL 20 AT 12PM & 2PM

VISIT PORTAGEPLACE.MB.CA FOR DETAILS

SPONSORED BY

Winnipeg Free Press

TAKING A CERTAIN JE NE SAIS QUOI

Have you ever "borrowed" anything from a hotel room?

A nice fluffy bathrobe? A copy of Where Saskatoon? A souvenir hanger from the Hanoi Hilton?

Be honest, now. A recent Hotels.com survey reveals that Canadians are among the most thieving hotel guests in the world, ranking 22nd of 29 on the honesty scale.

Kanadian kleptomaniacs are particularly partial to "magazines and books," while Americans, who are slightly less honest, can't help stuffing the spare towels and pillow slips into their luggage.

Of course, Scandinavians from Denmark and Norway are the most honest when they are on the road and no one is watching, ranking first and third respectively. Is there anything these people don't do better than us?

I'm not sure what this means, but travellers from Que-

Paul Sullivan

metronews.ca

bec are significantly more honest than the rest of Canadians, at least when it comes to leaving stuff in hotel rooms where it belongs. Vive le Québécois honnêtes!

But look, this is not as clear-cut as the survey would make it. Some thefts, such as brand new coffee makers and mugs, hair dryers, and (for shame) the Bible, are obvious high crimes, while some are misdemeanours

You have to wonder about "magazines and books." Am I the only one who was under what now appears to be the mistaken impression that if it has a hard cover it stays in the room, but magazines were meant to go along on excursions, providing portable, up-to-date information about gallery openings and ptomaine-free restaurants?

Then there are the toiletries seductively arrayed on the bathroom counter: shampoo, conditioner, hand cream, body wash, and mouth wash. What's the etiquette honnête? Maybe Canadians, unlike those healthy, clearthinking, progressive, (probably lying) Scandinavians, are just confused.

One easy way to deal with this is to imagine how you'd feel if your own house guests routinely walked off with the soap, the soap dish, and the toothpaste, not to mention the art work, clock radio, towels and washcloths and bathrobes, all items regularly pilfered from hotel rooms.

You'd be fâché, for sure.

It's just good policy to leave the goodies, no matter how irresistible, where you found them. And now it's for a good cause. Many hotels are participating in a program called Clean the World, which sends leftover toiletries to developing nations.

I can't believe I just typed that sentence. The Global South may go to bed hungry, but at least it will go to bed smelling good. And you, honest Canadian, you did that. Anyway: mitts off, and we hope you enjoy your stay.

Clickbait

ANDREW

FIFIELD andrew.fifield@metronews.ca

While Vine remains a few features short of ubiquity, Twitter's six-second video app is still home to a nice assortment of artsy, funny and just plain weird auteurs. Follow
these accounts on Twitter for the freshest goods
from great users.

@yelldesign:

Ever wondered what a potato rainstorm would look like? Or if corn could grow from paper? Of course you haven't. But Matt Willis has, and he uses Vines to make such imagined food feats come to life.

@keelayjams:

Your one-stop shop for thoughtful explorations on how much fun can be had with parachuting pizza, ceiling fan selfies and cardboard cutouts of Sex and the City characters.

@jamesurbaniak:

You don't even have to wait for new material. The very funny actor-slash-Venture Brothers voice has a truckload of cleverly-crafted and hilarious skits to wade through.

Comments

RE: Global Warming: When It's Hot, We're Believers, But in the Cold We're Skeptics

"Anyone who believes that we aren't facing a climate crisis is either blind, ignorant, or doesn't care." Another byproduct of our educational (indoctrination) system.

Wilbert Robichaud posted to metronews.ca

It seems to be more a trend of the planet. How many ice ages have there been? How many warming periods? Typically the people I see arquing about this are either ignorant on the subject, toting whatever Al Gore or that which other carbon interests have provided, as well as the scientists who may be endeavouring for career advancement, championed as saviours of our planet. It's completely reasonable to suggest that our activities are impacting the rate in which this occurs, but to say it's all us is crazy at best. The biggest issue faced is breathing quality and potential impact of pollutants in food and water. Jerry Teeple posted to metronews.ca

WE WANT TO HEAR FROM YOU: Send us your comments: winnipegletters@metronews.ca

ZOOM

Impersonating a legend

Little Tramps mark Chaplin's birthday

Young supporters of the Charlie Circle, a Charlie Chaplin fanclub, participate in an annual parade to celebrate the birthday of Charlie Chaplin in Adipur, Gujarat state, India, Tuesday.

Canes in hand and bowler hats firmly in place, dozens of Chaplin impersonators tramped through the streets of this small port town to celebrate the legendary comic actor and filmmaker.

Chaplin has an odd resonance in this industrial town. Surrounded by salt flats bordering the Thar desert, Adipur's only claim to fame is the annual parade — now in its 40th year — to honour the silent era actor.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Skipping work for Chaplin flicks costs fan his job

"I watched all three shows of the film that day. The next day I was sacked from my job for taking the day off without informing the office ... I lost my job, but I discovered Charlie Chaplin, and I've staved his fan ever since."

Ashok Aswani, founder of Charlie Circle, a club that has been celebrating Chaplin's birthday since 1973, recalling that he was on his way to work when he saw a poster of Charlie Chaplin dressed as a tramp at the local movie hall.

Charlie Chapin dressed as a tramp at the local movie hall.

He decided to skip work that day, which he was fired for, but has stayed a Chaplin fan ever since. "Every Chaplin film has a message for the common man. It's a message that has relevance even today."

O8 SCENE metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

Hollywood's varied take on the end of the world

Movies. From serious to silly, an assortment of movies explore earth's final days

IN FOCUS Richard Crouse scene@metronews.ca

It seems 2013 is the year Hollywood took Stephen Hawking, the world's leading theoretical physicist, to heart. "The human race shouldn't have all its eggs in one basket, or on one planet," he says, suggesting that if we don't change our ways we "might end up like Venus, at 250 degrees centigrade and raining sulphuric acid."

No fewer than three upcoming movies portray the Earth meeting an untimely

After Earth sees Will and Jaden Smith star as a father and son who crash land on Earth after an alien war has left the planet dead and abandoned. A Seth Rogen comedy aptly titled This is the End sees a cast of young A-listers — like Jay Baruchel, James Franco, Paul Rudd and Emma Watson

— at a Hollywood party when the world suddenly ends.

This weekend Tom Cruise brings us Oblivion, another story about a scorched Earth, which Cruise's character, a drone maintenance man, discovers the planet might not be completely abandoned.

It's the end of the world as we know it, at least according to Hawking and Hollywood, but it isn't the first time the world has ended, on screen anyway.

Coming a just half a dozen years after Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Five goes down in the almanac as the first sci-fi nuclear war film. It's set in a world destroyed by nuclear holocaust. The only five Americans to survive include a pregnant woman and her unborn baby, a neo-Nazi, an African-American man and a bank clerk. The story of subsistence and racial intolerance is an influential movie - Roger Corman and several others have borrowed the basic plot line — but its director, Arch Oboler, was a radio producer and the film is as visually interesting as you would guess a movie made by a sound engineer to be.

The Bed Sitting Room is a British take on Five, only with jokes instead of Oboler's earnest message. Starring Peter Cook and Dudley Moore, it's set in a post-nuclear-holocaust London following the Second World War. The war lasted only two minutes and 28 seconds before the bomb was dropped, leaving this strange group of survivors, including a civilian who is next in line for the throne, to explore their devastated city.

So far we've talked about serious and strange end of the world movies, but how about a silly one? That would be Savage Planet, an abandoned Earth movie that sees the planet taken over by giant killer space bears!

Boston's Wahlberg 'disgusted' over tragedy

Mark Wahlberg was in a sombre mood at the New York premiere of his new film, Pain and Gain — still grappling with the tragedy that struck his hometown in Boston.

Earlier Monday two bombs went off near the finish line at the Boston Marathon. Three people were killed and at least 140 were injured.

"I really didn't even want to come tonight. I hadn't really heard much — I spoke to my mom, and most of my family seems to be OK. It's such a big event, there's so many people there. It's horrible man. It's (expletive) disgusting, man. I just — I'm very upset," Wahlberg said Monday night.

"You try to put everything in God's hands and whatever happens here is out of our control and there's a bigger picture. But it's still obviously upsetting," the 41-year-old actor said on the red carpet before going into the premiere hosted by The Cinema Society

New York rapper 50 Cent was a guest at the premiere and before going inside, he expressed his dismay. "Why is it even happening? But there's no explanation. We don't even know what happened (yet)," 50 Cent said. Some 23,000 runners

Some 23,000 runners took part in the race, which attracts more than 500,000 spectators. The ASSOCIATED PRESS

New Kids on the Block

Joey McIntyre OK after explosions

New Kids on the Block singer Joey McIntyre tweets that he's OK after two bombs exploded near the finish line of the Boston Marathon minutes after he completed the 26.2-mile run. The 40-year-old tweets Monday that "there was an explosion by the finish line about 5 minutes after I finished." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

Seyfried misses her boobs

Not that there's anything wrong with them now, but Les Miserables star Amanda Seyfried says her breasts used to be bigger — and she laments not appreciating her ample bosom more when she was younger. "I saw a picture of them a couple of days ago from when I was 19, and my boobs were way bigger. They were a D, and now they're a small C because I lost weight," she tells Allure magazine. "There was something so beautiful about the size of them. When I look back, I'm like, 'Why did I always give myself such a hard time?' Nobody gave me s— about it except me." But Seyfried admits that even at their current size, her breasts can be a problem. 'They do get in the way a lot,' she says. "Like I wear a really small, tight sports bra when I go running ... because they want to smack my chin."

Osbourne: Admits to drugs, not to divorce

Ozzy Osbourne took to Facebook to clear the air about rumours that he and his wife, Sharon, are on the outs - and to make a completely different confession. "For the last year and a half I have been drinking and taking drugs," Ozzy wrote. "I was in a very dark place and was an a—hole to the people I love most, my family. However, I am happy to say that I am now 44 days sober. Just to set the record straight, Sharon and I are not divorcing. I'm just trying to be a better person."

Drake talks about Brown's insecurities

Drake may not be trying too hard to ease his ongoing feud with Chris Brown, but he does at least want everyone else to stop harping on it.

"Don't ask me s— about that man when I come up there, and leave that man alone. Stop preying on his insecurities," the rapper said, getting testy during an interview with online radio show Keep it Thoro late last week. "His insecurities are the fact that I make better music than him, that I'm more popping than him and that at one point in life the woman that he loves fell into my lap.

@TheRock

Strength & prayers to those in Boston impacted by the cowardly attack. People of Boston are proud, tough & resilient. #StayStrong

@JimCarrey

My heart bleeds for those poor pple in Boston. It's just too much.

@ActuallvNPI

Sending all good thoughts to Boston, after the madness. Makes me so sad. So crazy to think that violence can happen so randomly.

@GarryShandling

You've got to be an idiot to do anything that makes the city of Boston mad at you

METRO DISH

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Meet B. Coop's mother

WORD
Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.

Bradley Cooper has an interesting roommate — his mother. In the new issue of Details, he admits he's been living with his mother since his father died in 2011.

"Let's face it: It's probably not easy for her, by the way, to be living with her son," he admits. "It's life. And right now, two years after my father's death, this is where we are... But don't get me wrong. It's not without complications. It's not like I live in a compound and she's in the guesthouse.

No. She's in the next room."
I used to share an apartment with a guy who was in the room over and I heard everything — and my roommate wasn't nearly as attractive as Bradley Cooper. Let's hope Mama Cooper is a little hard of hearing

Life Fest April 20th & 21st Place Louis Riel, 120 Smith St, Winnipeg MB

a weekend learning from New York Times Best Selling Author, Kelley Armstrong!

How it works: Write a short story (max 1500 words.) Submit to "littlestcontestingmail.com" by April 12th, 2013 @ 5:00 pm Guidelines: Must be family approaved, anything above will not be considered. Previously published stories will not be considered. Genre/Speculative fiction is preferred. Only candidates selected will be

GRAND PRIZE

- Your story published in the Metro
- 1 Weekend Pass to Lit Fest
- Shwag Bag including signed paperbacks, bookmarks & more
- Meet Kelley Armstrong

Second Prize

1 Weekend Pass to C4 Lit Fest

Third Prize

1 Day Pass to C4 Lit Fest

www.c4litfest.com

TRAVEL

Jackie Robinson's Brooklyn

Historic tour. With the movie 42 in theatres. now is the time to traipse the legendary steps of the man who integrated baseball

With the movie 42 bringing the Jackie Robinson story to a new generation, fans young and old may be inspired to visit some of the places in Brooklyn connected to the African-American athlete who integrated Major League Baseball when he joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947.

In Coney Island, a statue portrays Robinson and Pee Wee Reese, the white Dodger who stood by him in the face of racist taunts. At the cemetery on the border of Brooklyn and Queens where Robinson is buried, admirers still leave baseballs and other mementos. And for fans who enjoy irony - or who remain bitter about the Dodgers' departure to Los Angeles in 1957 — there's a "No Ball Playing" sign at the housing complex where the Dodgers' storied stadium, Ebbets Field, once stood.

Joseph Dorinson, author of Jackie Robinson: Race, Sports and the American Dream, says it's no accident that the colour barrier was broken by a Brooklyn team. "Jackie made it in Brooklyn, and no other place, because of the multicultural and ethnic diversity here," he said.

Here's a guide to exploring Jackie Robinson's Brook-

Statue

The life-size statue in Coney Island shows Robinson and Reese arm in arm. It's inscribed with the story of how Reese, captain of the Dodgers, "stood by Jackie Robinson against prejudiced fans and fellow players ... silencing the taunts of the crowd" during a game in Cincinnati. The statue is located outside MCU Park, where the minor league Cyclones team plays, at Surf Avenue and West 17th Street, near the last stop on the D, F, N or Q train to Coney Island.

Home and church

Robinson lived in several places in Brooklyn before moving to Queens and later Connecticut with his wife and children. On a tidy block in East Flatbush, a two-story brick house at 5224 Tilden Ave. with a rusting fence and peeling paint bears a plaque that states: "The first African-American major league baseball player lived here from 1947 to 1949." There is an effort to landmark the house.

Robinson and his wife Rachel also lived for a time at 526 MacDonough St. in Bedford-Stuyvesant. Although much of the movie was filmed in the South, some scenes were shot on MacDonough because the filmmakers wanted to show the building's distinctive front stoop, a common feature of Brooklyn homes. production company used the Nazarene Congregational Church at 506 Mac-Donough St. for storage and wardrobe while filming, according to Nazarene's pastor, the Rev. Conrad Till-

When Robinson first arrived in New York, he lived for a time with Nazarene's then-assistant pastor, the Rev. Lacy Covington and his wife Florence. "Church and faith were central to Jackie Robinson's success," Tony Carnes, who publishes an online magazine called A Journey Through NYC Reli-

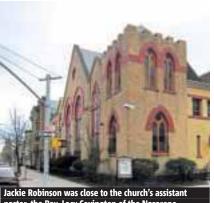

Nazarene was considered a "mink coat church" at the time, Tillard said, with an educated, affluent African-American congregation. Robinson later came back to the church to "make an impassioned speech about the dangers of drugs," Tillard said. Robinson's son, Jack, who'd served in the Vietnam War, was a heroin addict.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

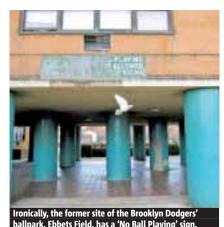

Robinson died in 1972, just a year after his son died in a car accident. They are buried, along with the Covingtons and Robinson's mother-in-law, in Cypress Hills Cemetery. "A life is not important except in the impact it has on other lives," reads the inscription on Robinson's tombstone. Mementos left by fans at the grave include a bat and baseballs, with one ball bearing a handwritten note thanking Robinson "for being an inspiration, strong and courageous."

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013 FOOD

Custard and pancake textures meet in refreshing berry-studded dessert

This pretty berry-studded dessert is a delicious cross between a custard and a pan-

It makes a great entertaining option because you can pop it in the oven to bake while the main course is being served.

It also gets top marks as an arthritis fighter: it's low in saturated fat for a dessert, and includes raspberries, which are a great source of fibre, are high in antioxidants and have a low glycemic index

- 1. Preheat oven to 350 F (180
- 2. Scatter raspberries in a greased, 11-inch (28 cm) shallow baking dish with fluted
- 3. Combine eggs, milk, flour, sugar, margarine, vanilla and salt in a blender. Blend, on medium speed, scraping the pitcher once, for 30 seconds or until smooth. (Or, combine

- 2 cups (500 ml) unsweetened frozen raspberries
- 1 1/2 cups (375 ml) liquid egg
- substitute
 1 1/4 cups (300 ml) 2% milk
- 1 cup (250 ml) all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup (175 ml) granulated
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) melted nonhydrogenated margarine
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) vanilla extract
- . 1/2 tsp (2 ml) salt
- . Icing sugar (optional)
- . Low fat vanilla yogurt (op-all ingredients in a bowl and whisk until smooth.)

- 4. Pour batter evenly over the raspberries. Bake for 40 minutes or until set.
- 5. Dust with icing sugar. Slice into wedges and serve warm with a dollop of yogurt. NEWSCANADA.COM/ ARTHRITIS.CA

Drink of the Week

Cherry Blossom

- .5 oz Luksusowa Cherry
- .5 tsp vanilla syrup*
- Top up champagne
- Garnish: vanilla stick

Shake Luksusowa cherry and vanilla syrup in shaker with ice. Double strain into a chilled champagne flute. Top with cold champagne, garnish and serve.

*Vanilla Syrup

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 1 tsp vanilla extract

In saucepan, bring sugar and water to boil. Reduce heat and simmer until syrupy, about five minutes. Add vanilla extract. Pour into jar and refrigerate for up to 2 weeks. RECIPE COURTESY OF MACIEK STAROSOLSKI, GLOBAL BRAND AMBASSADOR, LUKSUSOWA VODKA/ PHOTO COURTESY OF

Pressure makes diamonds or sweet Dulce de Leche

- 1. Set a metal steamer basket in the bottom of a large pressure cooker. Fill the pressure cooker with water up to its max
- 2. Remove the label from the can of sweetened condensed milk. Set the can on its side in the water on top of the steamer basket. The can must be completely submerged and not be in contact with the sides or bottom of the cooker (the steamer basket should prevent this).

3. Clamp on the pressure cooker's lid according to manufacturer's directions. Bring up to pressure over medium-high heat. Once the cooker has reached pressure, reduce heat to just maintain pressure. Most pressure cookers will hiss lightly at this stage, but refer to your model's directions. Cook for 20

- condensed milk
- 4. Transfer the entire pressure cooker to the sink and turn on cold water to run over it and cool the cooker. After 5 minutes, the pressure should be released and the cooker should be cool enough to open. If the cooker resists opening, this means the pressure is still too high inside to open. Continue running cold water over it.
- 5. Use tongs to remove the can from the water. You can either let it stand at room temperature and cool on its own or, for faster cooling, continue running just the can under cool water for another 5 to 10 minutes. Either way, the unopened can should be stored at room temperature as you would any canned good. Once opened, refrigerate for up to a week.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snack. Almond Cherry Bars

Thinking about whipping up a snack? Try this recipe for delicious bars from the Almond Board of California, which is packed with fibre, antioxidants and flavour.

- 1. Preheat oven to 350 F.
- 2. Lightly grease a 9- by 13inch rimmed baking sheet with cooking spray and line with parchment paper, leav-
- ing excess paper on edges.
- 3. Combine all ingredients in a large bowl and spread into pan. Press firmly. Bake for 10
- 4. Pull on parchment paper to remove from pan and cut into 24 bars while still warm six on one side and four on the other. almondboard.com/ NEWSCANADA.COM

Ingredients

- Cooking spray
- 3 cups (750 ml) granola such as Special K Low-Fat Granola
- 1 cup (250 ml) wheat germ
- 1 1/2 cups (350 ml) almond butter
- 1 tsp (5 ml) vanilla extract
- 1/3 cup (75 ml) whole-wheat
- 3/4 cup (180 ml) honey
- 1 cup (250 ml) dried cherries or dried cherry-flavoured
- 1 cup (250 ml) slivered almonds

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

Student Voice

The law of looking within

Ana Parfenova Fourth-year student Political Science and English University of British Columbia TalentEgg.ca

I've noticed that a lot of young people in university struggle with finding their right path in life. After all, there are so many doors that you can go through, so many careers and internships out there to try and pursue, and so many different paths that you can take on this exciting journey of young adulthood.

A year ago, due to a few unexpected, major life changes, I found myself in a strange and vulnerable position — for the first time in my life, I had absolutely no idea what I wanted to do after graduation.

My plans for law school fell through when I came to the realization that I would not be happy in a career that I found uncreative and boring. I knew that it is impossible to navigate through life without a clear sense of direction because the tide will push you farther and farther off track from where you ultimately want to be.

Finally, after receiving some good advice but mostly conflicting opinions, I realized that the only way I could gain clarity was to rely solely on myself... and look within.

What I'm doing now

After I discovered what I truly wanted, and understood what I truly enjoyed doing, I decided to pursue a career in marketing and public relations.

I made a chart of my goals and created a step-by-step outline of the things that I needed to accomplish in order to actualize my goal. I decided to join a club on campus and run for a public relations position in order to gain relevant experience in the public relations field while still in university. I am now a member of AIESEC where I have the chance to gain real world experience while finishing my last semester of university. AIESEC is one of the world's largest studentrun organizations that excels in bridging the gap between the classroom and the workplace. As a public relations coordinator in AIESEC, I have the opportunity to connect with media companies on a frequent basis, and have already developed a clear understanding and appreciation of the public relations field. I can proudly say that after several months of confusion and uncertainty, I am now gaining valuable experience that is in complete alignment with my goal. TALENTEGG.CA, CANADA'S LEADING JOB SITE AND ONLINE CAREER RESOURCE FOR STUDENTS AND NEW GRADUATES, WANTS TO HEAR YOUR STUDENT VOICE. SHARE IT AT TALENTEGG.CA.

It's not what you're doing, it's why you're doing it

Investigate your impact. Focusing on the 'whys' rather than the 'hows' can help to calm the chaotic career search

RACHEL MCKEE TalentEgg.ca

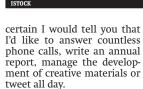

I've had several friends approach me saying that they are struggling with their job searches.

Their skills and experience, and in turn, their resumés, lack focus; they're casting a very wide job search net in every field from marketing to PR to graphic design to finance.

I believe that as much as their skills or experience lack focus, their passion, drive, desire or 'why' also lacks that focuses — and employers notice.

If we started thinking less about what day-to-day tasks we wanted to do while at work (the 'what') and reflected more on the things we wanted to achieve, accomplish or bring about (the 'why'), we'd have a much easier time determining which field/industry we want to enter, companies we'd like to apply for.

Before applying for my current position, I'm not

What I did know, however, was that I wanted to help kids. I wanted to give all kids the opportunity to play sports and I wanted to help families in need. This isn't just why I wanted a job; these were a few of the principles I want to centre my entire life around.

When you go about your job search you should seek to answer the following questions:

• Why do I want to work?

• Why do I want to wake up in the morning?

• What do I want to accomplish?

• What drives me?

Your answer might be: to help others, to become famous, to make money, to help others make money, to find a cure, to make your community green.

No answer is right or wrong; what matters is determining what is significant to you. The more intrinsic your 'why' the better.

If these questions are driving your job search and your career is centred on the answers to these questions, you will be far more successful then someone who says, "I want to crunch numbers," "I want to write press releases" or "I want to draw bluenrints"

Why do you want to crunch numbers, write press releases or draw blueprints? Those actions in and of themselves will likely not give you much personal satisfaction. Instead, these daily, job-related tasks should be a means to accomplishing your greater career goal.

TALENTEG.CA IS CANADA'S LEAD-ING JOB SITE AND ONLINE CAREER RESOURCE FOR COLLEGE AND UNI-VERSITY STUDENTS AND RECENT GRADUATES.

metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013 WORK/EDUCATION 13

Why does that person have so much pull?

I get the power.

Reflect outside your comfort zone to gain new perspectives on leadership and life

RUMEET BILLAN

Much of my educational background focuses on the study of leadership and it is a course that I teach in the Department of Liberal Studies at Humber College in Toronto.

As an elective, students sign up for various reasons; some say they want to become better leaders and some just didn't want to take the elective on vampires that was offered instead. Regardless of intention, they are there and we have the opportunity to explore different concepts related to leadership.

On the first day of the course, I explain to my students that I can't teach them "leadership" — it's not something that is taught. However, it is something that can be learned. My role is to facilitate an environment where they can take the leadership concepts that we discuss and apply them to their context, regardless of their industry or the program that they are enrolled in.

We have a discussion about who we identify as leaders, and in each class that I have taught the leaders that are mentioned are positional, political and celebrities.

Through personal and professional development, my goal over the course is for my students to view themselves as leaders and consider the impact that they have and can have. This can occur both inside and outside the classroom through: Reading books about leadership

• Having discussions about current events that may be impacting the world or even a piece of your own world

• Watching TED talks, reading biographies and viewing documentaries

 Creating your own story on how you want to make an impact.

Evolution of ideas

The 'big cheese' change

A teaching moment that I look forward to each semester is at the end of the course when my students are asked to reflect on their experience and say, "I used to think that only people who were in highlevel positions were leaders, but now I know that anyone can be a leader."

It is in this moment that I am reminded of the power of experiences and hope that they carry this with them throughout their personal lives and professional careers.

Whether it is formally or informally, lifelong learning suggests that we all continue to be shaped by those who are around us and perhaps the most influential is learning from our personal experiences by making meaning out of them.

Consider your paradigms and what experiences have influenced the way that you perceive our world. Take courses outside of your program and industry to experience new processes that can then be used and applied within your own field.

Whether you are in school or have just graduated, electives, week-long intensive courses and workshops can allow you to do so. Approaching situations with an interdisciplinary point of view will not only enrich your contributions, but also your own perspective. It's up to you as to which experiences and situations you'll choose to engage in.

RUMEET BILLAN IS AN EDUCATOR AND PHD CANDIDATE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO AND THE PRESIDENT OF JOB-SINEDUCATION.COM.

TALENTEGG.CA IS CANADA'S LEADING JOB SITE AND ONLINE CAREER
RESOURCE FOR COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY STUDENTS AND RECENT GRADUATES.

Twitte

@TalentEgg: Is it easier/harder to hatch a career now than it was for your parents?

tyfen

harder! The competition for CA students is more intense - candidates really have to differentiate themselves to stand out

@Diana_Dang

Our generation is a lot more open-minded nowadays but many are ambitious! With the right mindset, one can batch their career easy @miszahid:

Harder but if you utilize the resources we have now that our parents never did it becomes easy

@theYingWang

despite co-op and internship experience, I still can't find a paid position! It's definitely a harder time for this generation

@patrycjawygna

It's a combination of both. It's easier bc new jobs are created with great opportunities but it's much harder get that first job!

@fallenstars

it is way harder. Wish I was growing up when my parents did. They have all the good careers now!

NEW PROGRAM

Don't want to be stuck behind a desk? Pursue a hands-on career as a

Registered Massage Therapist

Why Robertson's Massage Therapy Program?

Real-world experience with our on-site clinic & outreach clinics

Real-world practicum

Hands-on training with our industry experienced instructors

Enjoy the benefits of our student laptop program

Financial assistance to those who qualify te

Get more information at www.robertsoncollege.com or call 204.800.7933 Classes start in June!

SPORTS metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

SPORTS

Jets close door on Bolts in shootout

NHL. Winnipeg still in playoff hunt after setting season-high winning streak

Andrew Ladd scored twice in regulation and added the decisive goal in a shootout as the Jets stayed in the playoff hunt with a 4-3 victory over the Tampa Bay Lightning on Tuesday.

Ladd also picked up an assist and defenceman Zach Bogosian had a pair of helpers. Blake Wheeler scored once and picked up two assists for Winnipeg (22-19-2), which is on a season-high four-game winning streak.

Martin St. Louis, Pierre-

On Tuesday

4 3

Jets Lightning

Cedric Labrie and Steven Stamkos — with his 27th goal of the season — scored for Tampa (17-22-4).

Jets centre Mike Santorelli also beat Ben Bishop in the Winnipeg's 46 points puts it in a tie with the Rangers for eighth spot in the Eastern Conference after New York lost 4-2 to Philadelphia Tuesday. The Rangers have a game in hand over the Jets.

Winnipeg held a 3-1 lead heading into the third period, but Labrie scored after a scramble in front of the net following a Pavelec rebound at 5:19, while Stamkos came in at Pavelec and beat the goaltender on the stick side at 11:17.

Pavelec made 24 saves and Ben Bishop stopped 32 shots for Tampa.

Winnipeg's used a fourday break — its longest of the season — to jump out to a fast start.

After Tampa defenceman Eric Brewer turned over the puck near centre ice, Wheeler carried it up the ice and made a drop pass to Ladd inside the blue-line.

Ladd skated toward Bishop and fired a low shot between his pads to take the lead 1-0 at 1:23.

A Winnipeg turnover tied the game 1-1 at 10:27.

Behind Winnipeg's net with the puck, Jets defenceman Ron Hainsey sent a backhand pass that missed his teammate and went right to St. Louis's stick in the left faceoff circle. A quick shot beat

A patient Wheeler put the Jets ahead 2-1 at 8:37 of the second period.

After getting a pass from Ladd to the left of the net, Wheeler skated slowly across the front of the net and then shot the puck back from a sharp angle over Bishop for his 16th goal of the season.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russia

Bombings prompt security questions

Russian officials gave mixed signals Tuesday over whether they needed to increase security at key sporting events like the World Athletics Championship and the 2014 Winter Olympics after explosions at the Boston Marathon killed three people and wounded more than 170.

The track and field championship, which takes place in Moscow from Aug. 10 to 18, is seen as a dress rehearsal for the 2014 Olympic games in the Black Sea resort of Sochi.

One top sports official said security was being beefed up but others said Russia's take on Olympic security was already very robust. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NHL

Outdoor games added for 2014

The NHL is going to add five more outdoor games to its 2014 schedule, according to multiple reports Tuesday.

The Winter Classic between the Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings at Ann Arbour's Michigan Stadium had already been announced for Jan. 1 2014.

TSN and ESPN are both reporting that five more outdoor games have been added to the 2013-14 season.

The games include the Anaheim Ducks and Los Angeles Kings at Dodger Stadium. The New York Rangers will face both the Islanders and New Jersey Devils at Yankee Stadium the same week as the Super Bowl. And after the 2014 Winter Olympics in Sochi, Russia, there will be two more outdoor games: Pittsburgh in Chicago and Ottawa in Vancouver.

Trestman wastes no time at first Bears mini-camp

Tuesday in Lake Forest, Ill.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Everything moved faster for Jay Cutler and the Chicago Bears offence Tuesday at mini-camp practice — including the new coach.

The new, up-tempo offence came complete with Marc Trestman running all over the field, up and down the sidelines, to get his point across to players in a high-energy style the Bears aren't used to seeing from their head coach.

"That's just how I have

Quoted

"You can't get ahead of yourself. We've got to win games to sign those contracts." Bears QB Jay Cutler, who is in a contract year been doing it," said Trestman, who came to the Bears from the CFL's Montreal Alouettes after the firing of Lovie Smith. "I like football and like moving around and making sure people are running to the ball and that is kind of how I have done it."

Cutler liked the new approach.

"It was faster," he said. "We were in and out of the huddle. I think we wanted to try to create as game-like an atmosphere as possible."

The changes included shorter drops by Cutler to throw, the ball getting out quicker and less complicated pass routes. It's just the opposite of the passing game the Bears used the last three years, and Cutler seemed to like it. It could mean fewer sacks for a quarterback among the most harried in the NFL the last three seasons.

Enclave a world-class wagon

- Type. Four-door, front-/allwheel-drive full-size wagon
- Engine (hp): 3.6-litre DOHC
- Transmission. Six-speed automatic
- Base price (incl. destination) $43,100

Design

The "waterfall" grille is bigger and its vertical slats are displayed more prominently. Buick's designers reshaped the hood and fenders, added chrome body side trim and installed new high-intensity xenon headlights and LED (Light Emitting Diode) tail lamps. The result is a bolder and more recognizable appearance that's in keeping with the rest of Buick's steadily expanding lineup.

Safety

Along with its Chevrolet and GMC relations, the Enclave arrives standard with a unique front-centre airbag. This inflatable safety device, which deploys from the right-hand side of the driver's seatback, protects the upper body (head and thorax) regions of both front-seat passengers in the event of a side-impact collision. It will remain extended for a longer period of time, compared to the front and side airbags, in the event of a secondary impact or

All wheel drive

For all-weather driving conditions, the Enclave can be equipped with all wheel drive (AWD) that constantly monitors road conditions and seamlessly directs torque to the tires with the most traction when slippage is detected. AWD isn't too expensive an option and only slightly increases fuel consumption (13.0 l/100 km in the city and 8.6 highway, versus 12.7/8.4 for frontwheel-drive models).

Review. Buick might have saved its own skin with the Enclave, and also carved out its future

MALCOLM GUNN

Even with smaller vehicles popping up like ants at a picnic, the full-size Enclave wagon remains Buick's best-selling North American model. And it's likely to stay that way with the arrival of the improved 2013 edition.

The Enclave was introduced for the 2008 model year and has proven a key pillar supporting Buick's rebirth. It shares basic ingredients with the Chevrolet Traverse and GMC Acadia, but a superior level of luxury content places it at the upper end of the affordability scale where it competes with the Acura MDX, Infiniti JX and even the Chevrolet Tahoe. That old-school body-

The only weak areas that really needed updating were the lifeless thin-grip steering wheel and the telematics. The Enclave still has the wheel, but the on-frame sport utility vehicle closely approximates the Enclave in size, if not in attitude, but can't touch it for fuel economy and roominess, or for the way it coddles and protects its passengers. The 2013 Enclave retains all of its inherent strengths, but refines the experience for new and returning customers (four out of 10, says Buick).

Getting under way involves the usual 3.6-litre V6 that puts out 288 horsepower and 270 pound-feet of torque. The sixspeed automatic transmission has had its electronic shift mapping updated for smoother operation.

The engine's output is decent, but it needs all of its horses to propel the Enclave's 2,270-kilogram curb weight with any authority and to tow up to 2.045 kilograms of trailer weight.

Also altered is the Enclave's suspension that gets new shocks and springs designed for improved ride and better control over bumps.

Being luxury-focused, the base $43,100 Enclave Convenience model arrives loaded up with tri-zone climate control, backup camera, eight-way-powered driver's seat and two-waypowered passenger seat and a power liftgate.

Clearly the Enclave has withstood the test of time to become a world-class wagon that has assisted in positioning Buick firmly in the upscale driver's seat. Even in a world that's getting noticeably smaller.

Dodge Durango Base price: $30,000

Acura MDX Base price: $44,200

3 Infiniti JX35 Base price: $41,400

metroews.ca metronews.ca Wednesday, April 17, 2013

Putting the pedal to the metal

Autopilot acceleration. Why accelerating feels so good ...

AUTO PILOT Mike Goetz drive@metronews.ca

The sensation of acceleration is a joyful thing we get from cars. OK, some cars.

Because there are definitely a few that are just not into acceleration in any meaningful way. Consider this exchange from the movie, Horrible Bosses, when the police grill Nick Hendricks:

"You wanna explain why you were doin' 61 in a 25 zone ... One block from the victim's house, just moments after he got shot dead?"

"I was drag racing. I'm a drag racer."

"You were drag racing? In a Prius?"

"I don't win a lot."

Whether you do it within or outside of the law, fast acceleration in a car never fails to bring us a jolt of pleasure. It's a similar sensation to a roller coaster ride, skiing, cycling fast down a hill, even sky-diving. Other pleasurable sensations — like listening to good music or savouring good food — are equally complex, but at least it's obvious how they get processed, by ears and taste buds and such.

How does acceleration get noticed by our minds and bodies, and why do we like it when it does?

The Internet people have answers for these questions. I will try to summarize.

Apparently, somewhere deep inside our ears are things called "otoliths." We have two in each ear, one for detecting acceleration in the horizontal plane, and one for detecting acceleration in the vertical plane.

Each otolith consists of a hard bone-like plate attached to a mat of sensory fibres. When our head accelerates, the plate shifts to one side, bending the sensory fibres. Gravity can also tug and shift the plates, bending the sensory fibres as well. This is how the brain gets the signal that the head is either accelerating or falling/rising or both. It's quite good at figuring out the difference, and if nothing is too extreme, we don't even know that it's processing all this information.

But when something changes up fast, or is unexpected and extreme, the brain suddenly becomes uber engaged. This intense mental activity can be frightening but also exciting. We like it.

This ramped-up state is also about an increased focus to help keep us alive during the potentially life-ending moments suggested by all this sudden acceleration. I guess that's why we evolved to have otoliths in the first place — self-preservation.

In addition to all this brain activity, our bodies are trying to reconcile forces that are just plain weird. When you are ac-

The need for speed

"When something changes up fast, or is unexpected and extreme, the brain suddenly becomes uber engaged."

Mike Goetz

celerating in a car, the car seat is essentially pushing you forward, but at the same time you're getting all this push back from the world — driving you back into the seat. It's the crazy nature of how we experience acceleration — from the opposite direction of the actual force accelerating you. In this way, the "skin" is another body organ that senses acceleration, particularly the portion around your butt cheeks.

All good clean fun.

One final safety tip: Though many sources cite "kinesthesioception" as the official term for our ability to sense acceleration, it is still not an acceptable Scrabble world.

YOU CAN'T BUY CONFIDENCE. WE'LL JUST THROW IT IN FOR FREE.

Every Certified Pre-Owned Mazda goes through a rigorous inspection process, and comes with warranties and guarantees designed to give you the confidence you need and the driving experience you expect.

CERTIFIED PRE-OWNED

160-Point Detailed Inspection

7-Year/140,000-Kilometre Limited Powertrain Warranty[†]

24-Hour Emergency Roadside Assistance

30-Day/3,000-Kilometre Exchange Privilege

CarProof® Vehicle History Report

Zero Deductible

Available Extended Coverage

CRAFTED. ENGINEERED. CERTIFIED.

zoom-zoom

†Coverage begins from the original new retail sale date and covers 7-years/140,000-kilometres, whichever comes first. ‡0,9% APR only for well-qualified buyers will qualify. Amount of down payment and other factors may affect qualification. 0.9% APR available on all models and all qualifying model years (the 5 model years (the 5 model years) the 64 models will be a control to the factor of th

The completely redesigned 2014 Subaru Forester puts the sport back in SUV.

With a roomier interior, more cargo space and a new power rear gate†, you'll be ready for any journey. Combine all that with Subaru's legendary symmetrical full-time AWD and X-MODE™‡, a newly developed system that offers added control, and even the most brutal road conditions will feel welcoming. Plus, the 2014 Forester is more fuelefficient than ever. The only question left is where to go next.

Confidence in Motion

POWER REAR GATE[†]

ALL-NEW X-MODE^{™‡}

subaru.ca

Proud Sponsor of the Keeping Abreast fund

An evening of celebration and gratitude for those who enhance the lives of women with breast cancer. May 8, 2013, The Delta Winnipeg, 7pm www.keepingabreast.org

2012 Subaru Outback 3.6R AWD

SALE PRICE $29,960 2011 VW Jetta

Fully equipped incl. sunroof, heated sporty manual transmission, seats & more. Demo Savings! Not air, PW, PL and more. Only exactly as shown. Stk. #13077B.

SALE PRICE

$12,980

Touring Package

Fully equipped incl. sunroof, heated seats, all power options. Demo savings Not exactly as shown. Stk. #12163

2012 Subaru Legacy

SALE PRICE

$24,960

LEGACY

2011 Subaru Legacy Conv. Pkg. AWD $21,960

2010 Subaru Legacy 2.5 AWD

Sporty manual. Stk. #13309B

$19,260

2006 Tovota Sienna LE AWD

Safe family transportation. New tires and more.

> SALE PRICE $15,960

2012 VW Golf Trendline

BEST PRICE ON A VW!! Auto, air and more, factory warranty. Stk. #92440

> SALE PRICE $14,360

2009 Subaru Impreza AWD

Local lease return, MTair, PW, PL low kms Vehicle not exactly as

3 AVAILABLE FROM $14,960

WRX 2010 Subaru WRX Ltd. AWD

2010 Subaru WRX AWD

Black Hatchback 59k. Stk. #92760

2010 Subaru WRX AWD

White Hatchback 70k. Stk. #92770

See today's answers at metronews.ca/answers. BY KELLY ANN BUCHANAN

T Aries March 21 - April 20

Your workload is about to go through the roof but don't worry about it. You have nothing to fear. Somehow, you will find the time and the energy to get everything done that has to be done.

Taurus April 21 - May 21

You need to give yourself permission to be yourself. Identify what it is you most want to do in life then go for it with all your physical, mental and emotional might.

II Gemini May 22 - June 21

Family matters will be in your mind today and there may be some kind of drama you have to resolve. Don't worry, you will cope with ease. Loved ones will respect your decisions, but first you've got to make them.

9 Cancer

June 22 - July 23

If you feel like letting your hair down and doing something out of the ordinary then go right ahead. Who cares about the cost? Life is for living and loving and laughing.

$\mathbf{\Omega}$ Leo July 24 - Aug. 23

Before you start work on a new enterprise, make sure the foundations you've put in place are solid. You are going to be doing a lot of building over the next few weeks. You don't want to risk it all falling down.

W Virgo Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

No challenge is too big for you. The next four weeks are going to be special, very special. How do you make the most of them? Just be yourself. You're special after all

△ Libra Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

18

You may be tempted to ignore the world but is that really the best thing to do? Whatever it is that has put you in such a bad mood, don't let it win. Come out fighting today.

M Scorpio Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

There comes a time when, no matter how good you are at working on your own, you must join forces with others. The planets indicate it's time to get involved in a project that involves hundreds of people.

プ Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You need to slow down and ask yourself what it is you are trying to achieve. The time is right to move on and maybe move up. But first, convince yourself it's what you want.

り Capricorn Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Do you feel trapped and unable to break out of a rut? The planets suggest you will soon be on the move again, and once you get going, you'll soon reach top speed.

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You are worrying about something that does not need worrying about. Once you realize that, you will be able to break out of the cycle of despair that currently holds you. Believe in yourself.

H Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You will get the opportunity over the next few days to build bridges to people you respect but who, for some reason, you are not as close to as you once were. Don't let this chance go. SALLY BROMPTON

Crossword: Canada Across and Down

Across

- 1. Pre-game ritual, Coin
- 5. Showbiz legend Ms. Channing 10. Excellent, slangstyle
- 14. Purpose 15. Brightly-col-
- oured lizard 16. Bathroom's door hook garment
- 17. Rock star's transport: 2 wds. 19. Earthen stewing
- 20. Like the empty wallet's money
- 21. Back then 22. Reuben require-
- ments 23. Rock 'n'

pot

- 25. Prefix to 'matic'
- 27. The basics in
- early learning 30. 30th, some-
- times, as per calendars [acronym]
- 32. "Understood." 35. Victoria's Secret item
- 36. Western city
- 39. __lettuce 41. Place atop: 2 wds.
- 42. Comfort
- 43. Mark Burnett's realm as a producer:
- 2 wds. 45. Chip
- 46. Prefix to 'ide' (Cavities fighter)
- 47. But, to Brutus 49. Actors Mr. Olin and Mr. Watanabe
- 50. Times
- 52. The Dalai 54. Topic, for short
- 57. 'Verd' add-on
- (Jury's finding) 59. Gloria Swanson
- role, __ Desmond
- 62. Legal bargaining 63. Jacques Plante
- ey: 2 wds
- contribution to hock-
- 66. Greenly admire
- 67. Aches
- 68. Region
- 69. Manners 70. Garbage
- 71. Off the dragon
- Down 1. Recipe measure-
- ment, for short
- 2. Canoe implements
- 3. Jump rope
- _____, French 10. Postpone, as Parliament 11. Hallowed

4. Cuts ties

5. Ranch sight

6. 'Pass' suffix

7. Aristocrat of India

-3 fatty acids

9. CN Tower, English =

- 12. Willing's partner
- 13. Red Rose products
- 18. "I'd like to buy __'." ...said the
- "Wheel of Fortune"
- contestant
- 24. Thurston Howell
- III's wife
- 26. Also
- 27. For short, for short
- 28. "The Pelican
- (1993)

formers, for short 40. Canada's only MLB team: 2 wds. 41. Bryan Adams song: "__ from the Heart" 44. 'Super' suffix 48. Pastry 49. Destinies 51. Cleanse

29. Secretly conspir-

37. Author's creation

38. Agents for per-

31. Mr. Damon's

34. Amber, for

ing group

33. Duck

example

- thoroughly 53. Canadian singer/
- songwriter Mr. Berg 54. Let stuff fly
- 55. Common skeleton part
- 56. Bunch 58. Scarlett's home
- 60. Crumbly soil
- 61. On the briny 64. Some officers, for short
- 65. Steppenwolf lead singer, John

Sudoku How to play

Fill in the grid, so that every row, every column and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1-9. There is no math involved.

	_
8	2	6	4	7	3	1	9	5
B	4	0	5.	6	1	7	2
1	5	7	2	8	9	8	3	4
3	9	2	8	1	6	5.	4	7
5	6	8	7	9	4	3	1	2
4	7	3	3	2	5	9	8	6
2	8	9	1	5	7	4	. 8	3
7	1	4	6	3	2	8	5	9
6	3	5	8	4	8	2	7	1

2			5	1	6			9
		1	7
		6			8	3	2
5		7	2		4		3	8
4								2
8	6		1		3	5		7
	7	5	4			9
					9	7
1			3	8	7			6

TODAY

MAX: 1°

MIN: -12°

THURSDAY

MIN: -6'

(

JENNA KHAN WEATHER SPECIALIST " WEEKDAYS 6 AM

BT BREAKFAST TELEVISION

Read metr@drive everv Wednesdav.

ON SELECT MODELS

MONTHS

²⁰¹³ACCENT

SELLING PRICE: $14,930* ACCENT 4 DR L 6-SPEED MANUAL.
DELIVERY, DESTINATION & FEES INCLUDED.
PLUS GST/PST.

E HWY: 5.3L/100 KM CITY: 7.1L/100 KM▼

OWN IT

FEATURES INCLUDE:

- FRONT ACTIVE HEADRESTS FRONT, SIDE & CURTAIN AIRBAGS POWER DOOR LOCKS
- AM/FM/CD/MP3/USB/iPOD® AUDIO SYSTEM

E of

²⁰¹³ELANTRA

SELLING PRICE: $16,980 • ELANTRA L 6-SPEED MANUAL. DELIVERY, DESTINATION, FEES & $500 IN PRICE ADJUSTMENTS^a INCLUDED. PLUS GST/PST. HWY: 5.2L/100 KM CITY: 7.1L/100 KM▼

OWN IT $94 BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT

OWN IT

68

FEATURES INCLUDE:

- 6 AIRBAGS iPOD®/USB/AUXILIARY INPUT JACKS
- POWER WINDOWS & DOOR LOCKS
 ABS WITH TRACTION CONTROL SYSTEM
- DUAL HEATED POWER EXTERIOR MIRRORS

2012 BEST NEW DESIGN 2012 BEST NEW SPORTS/ PERFORMANCE CAR (UNDER 50K)

VELOSTER 6-SPEED MANUAL.
DELIVERY, DESTINATION & FEES INCLUDED.

FINANCING FOR

AND $0 DOWN

FEATURES INCLUDE:

- AIR CONDITIONING
 TUCD SCREEN WITH REARVIEW CAMERA
- BLUETOOTH® HANDS FREE PHONE SYSTEM
 17" ALLOY WHEELS
 iPOD®/USB/AUXILIARY INPUT JACKS

E HWY: 6.7L/100 KM

CITY: 10.1L/100 KM▼

²⁰¹³SANTA FE

SANTA FE 2.4L FWD AUTO.
DELIVERY. DESTINATION & FEES INCLUDED.

AND $0 99/1

FEATURES INCLUDE:

- SIRIUS XM RADIO WITH BLUETOOTH® HANDS FREE PHONE SYSTEM
- HEATED FRONT SEATS
 FOG LIGHTS
- ACTIVE ECO SYSTEM

5-year/100,000 km Comprehensive Limited Warranty^{††} 5-year/100,000 km Powertrain Warranty 5-year/100,000 km Emission Warranty

"The Hyundai names, logos, product names, feature names, images and slogans are trademarks owned by Hyundai Auto Canada Corp. 1Finance offers available O.A.C. from Hyundai Financial Services based on a new 2013 Accent 4 Door L 6-Speed Manual (Flantra L 6-Speed Manual) Elantra L 6-Speed Manual (Flantra L 6-Speed Manual) Elantra L 6-Speed Manual (Flantra L 6-Speed Manual) (Flantra L 6-Speed Manual)

Focus Hyundai 1066 Nairn Ave. Winnipeg, 204-663-3814 or 1-800-545-4488 Dealer Permit # 1383

Murray Hyundai 1700 Waverly St. Winnipeg, 204-269-5555 Dealer Permit # 4008

Winnipeg Hyundai 3700 Portage Ave. W. Winnipeg, 204-774-5373 Dealer Permit # 7639

Birchwood Hyundai 2420 McPhillips Street. Winnipeg, MB, 204-633-2420 Dealer Permit # 4423